JUDGE STAMPER AND EDITOR BURMAN CITED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

As the result of the delivery of a speech at the M. E. Church two weeks ago Sunday, Judge J. T. Stamper, of the County Court, and Fred Burman, editor of the Mountain Advocate, were cited to appear before Judge R. S. Rose, of the Circuit Court, and Commonwealth's Attorney J. C. Bird and County Attorney Phil Senter are subjected to trial to see if they have been guilty of improper conduct. Judge Stamper delivered the speech, (the second speech on the subject of law enforcement) and Advocate printed it as it had the former one, certainly with no idea of reflecting on any member of the Court. The editor yields to no one in his respect for law and for those who represent it. Until served with notice to appear before Judge Rose, he was unconscious that anything might be wrong with the paragraph objected to.

LOCUST GROVE INSTITUTE ORCHESTRA VISITS ATLANTA

Professor Ahler In Charge
Three hundred members of the Atlanta Chapter of the Locust Grove Institute Alumni Association will have as their week-end guests the L. G. I. Orchestra. While in the city the Orchestra will give several sacred concerts at local churches. Saturday at 7:30 P.M. a program will be given at Buckhead Baptist Church; Sunday at 9:30 A.M. at the Ponce De Leon Baptist Church; on Sunday at 3 P.M. at the First Baptist Church; at 7:30 P.M. at the Tabernacle Baptist Church.

The Orchestra, consisting of 20 members, is directed by Prof. Chas. E. Ahler and is considered one of the best school orchestras in the state. Last year several concerts were given in Atlanta by this orchestra and those who heard the programs are eagerly looking forward to their return.

CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT

G. B. Detherage has bought the interest of John H. Detherage in the Detherage Furniture Store. The former will appreciate a continuance of your patronage.

LITTLE BOB TUGGLE BURNED

Bob, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tuggle, was seriously burned about the body last Saturday when his clothing caught on fire. According to latest reports he is resting quietly and is getting better. It is hoped he will soon be completely recovered.

I. O. O. F. HAVE BIG FEED

On Tuesday evening the I. O. O. F. local lodge had a big supper served to its members in their hall. The wives prepared the meal which consisted of oysters stewed and fried, and the things that go with them, hot coffee and bottled drinks (soft.) There were also short addresses on the good of the order and expressions of thanks to the ladies who prepared and served the big feed.

UNION COLLEGE NOTES

Jettie Stratton has been ill for the past week since her trip to Georgetown, but is able to be out now.

George Reed, of Manchester, visited her friend, Maymie Hensley during the week end.

Some interesting talks on phases of education were given last week by different members of the College Senior Class.

The Academy boys and girls are making a good start in basketball. Dec. 7 the boys team defeated Manchester by a score of 36 to 18. On Saturday night, Dec. 9th, the boys and girls met the boys and girls of London High School. U. C. was victorious in both games. Girls 17 to 3; boys 22 to 17. Everybody enjoyed these games.

Robert Blair and Earl Palmer spent the week end with their home folks.

Maggie J. Burnett, Thomas Jordan and Carolyn Stanfill visited relatives over the week end.

Ida May took a pleasant trip to Corbin over the week end.

The College Orchestra and Girls Quartette went to Williamsburg on December 9th to give a concert.

The examinations are going to be more pleasant this year than before for they come a week early and we get two days for one subject.

The croquet court is unusually popular these days. Some of the faculty members are becoming expert in the game.

The College Literary Wednesday night was up to the high standard expected of Philos.

Rev. J. O. Gross was a welcome visitor at chapel last Wednesday.

MOUNTAIN LODGE NO. 187

Members of Mountain Lodge 187, Barbourville, Kentucky: According to our ancient law, you are hereby summoned to assemble in annual communication on Wednesday, December 27, 1922, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Then and there you will hear the reports of the treasurer, secretary and finance committee. Furthermore, at this gathering you shall elect who shall serve you as master and wardens, as secretary and treasurer, as deacons and tyler for the year to come. Take heed that you choose not for riches nor favor, but for wisdom and fitness; that the honor of the Lodge be kept unsullied and its glory continue undimmed.

Fraternally,
T. J. MOORE,
Worshipful Master.

CITY RESTAURANT BOUGHT BY B. S. EDWARDS

Mack Hammons has sold the City Restaurant to B. S. Edwards of the Clear Tone Music Co. Mack will go to the oil fields after a while and make his fortune.

Mrs. Edwards will have charge of the service end of the business and J. A. Edwards will handle the kitchen. Both have had considerable experience in restaurant work and will undoubtedly make a success with their new business.

B. S. Edwards promises the best meals obtainable, good service and a fresh line of all other goods which may be sold. He asks the patronage of his friends.

A NEW CITIZEN

Born to Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Richards, at the Logan Hospital, Saturday morning December 9th, in the year of grace 1922, one perfectly lovely son, Richard Emmet Richards. Mother and babe are doing well and Milo is wearing a look of profound fatherhood, which he is attempting to hide under a lofty indifference to such a casual affair as a young son. Whether Richard Emmet will engage in the building of railroads, or whether he will follow his Uncle Edmondson into the fields of professional baseball, has not yet been decided. Everyone who knows his nice daddy and mammy, however, will wish him every good including a merry Christmas and a happy new year. Persons unacquainted with the habits of babies should not send him toy railroads or shaving sets as yet. Trivialities of this kind are apt to bore him. Books, too, are useless as he has not yet learned the English language, but his parents are hopeful he will decide to learn it since they are going to raise him as an American citizen.

He is said to resemble his dad.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday, December 17th

Evening service at 7 o'clock. That which you have been expecting for a long while will take place at this service.

Morning service at 11 A.M. Every member is urged to attend this service as some important business will come before the church as a whole.

The only difference between an indifferent church member and an infidel is that the infidel is the better man of the two.

Arthur A. Ford, Pastor.

LYCEUM DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

It is some feat for one artist to keep an audience constantly pleased yet Helen Waggoner, of the Lyceum Bureau, certainly did that very thing Friday night at Union College. Her repertoire was composed of folk lore tales and her audience never suffered a dull moment during the whole evening. Her greatest compliment was a spontaneous "ha-ha" from Mr. Fred Evans which infected the audience to intense laughter. It was worth double the price to hear Miss Waggoner.

SPELLING MATCH

Tuesday night came on and found us all more interested in the spelling matches being held in chapel than ever before. The Seniors and Sophomores were spelling off their tie. Professor Franklin gave out the words from an old spelling book. They were difficult and it didn't take long to spell down both sides except Green Howard, a Sophomore and Ted Davies, a Senior. Then, due to a misprint in the spelling-book, Ted was ruled down and Green called winner. Later consultation of the dictionary revealed the fact that Ted had spelled the word correctly. This leaves the burning question still a tie.

KIWANIS ELECT OFFICERS

Much Enthusiasm Displayed by the Members

With H. H. Owens in the chair in the absence of Mayor T. D. Tinsley, Kiwanians got down to business of singing and eating at the Jones Hotel, Friday night.

A petition was signed by those present asking the Cumberland Telephone Co. to put in a long distance telephone at the Jones Hotel for the convenience of people at night or on Sundays.

Voting for officers for 1923 followed with Jeff Moore, W. T. Stewart and the chairman, H. H. Owens acting as tellers. Milo Richards and the boys filled up the tally time with rousing songs. The result of the count follows:

J. D. Jarvis, president.
J. J. Tye, vice president.
E. W. Scent, district trustee.
Board of Directors:
W. R. Lay, L. L. Richardson, C. P. Kennedy, J. A. McDermott, G. L. Dickenson, J. Q. Redding, T. D. Tinsley and R. W. Cole.

President-elect Jarvis said it was an honor to be president of Kiwanis in which institution he had been interested for over eighteen months. He said he had done his best to help promote Kiwanis in Barbourville and promises that on the first or second Friday of January, the charter will be presented. Mr. Jarvis stated that the by-laws would be strictly enforced. Every Kiwanis Club goes through a wedding process. We shall try and get things done right.

Vice-president-elect Tye said, like Jim Jarvis, I intend to help Kiwanis on its feet. I like the spirit here tonight. We have been wondering to much. We should not attempt too much. We must not attempt not working. Let us do something.

C. P. Kennedy, who was appointed chairman of the Board of Directors, said that the meetings should be strictly confined to one hour set for them.

It was decided to continue to hold the meetings at 6:30 until after the first of the year, when they will be held at 12:30 o'clock, this being the decision of the members thru a ballot.

On a motion by Arthur A. Ford, the Club decided that, since a guarantee of payment for a certain number of meals had been given to J. E. Archer, members had not been present to eat them and Mr. Archer had therefore not received pay for same, Kiwanis members should be pro-rated for payment of the amount due, some $31.75. Arthur A. Ford, J. D. Jarvis, Jeff Moore and Dan H. Herndon were appointed a committee to get the money.

At a meeting of the directors following the regular meeting Herbert C. Miller was chosen secretary for the coming year. His appointment was unanimous and everyone was pleased at the choice as it is felt he will make good in every way.
